The Lodger & Times Convention Reporters

These are the reporters covering the political conventions for the Lodger & Times and you.

LLOYD LAPHAM
Reporting events in Washington relating to the affairs of states of the Far West is the assignment which the United Press has given to Lloyd Lapham. His experience has qualified him well for it.

Before becoming a member of U. P.'s staff in the national capital, he had for 12 years covered state politics in California, Nevada and Utah. Lapham went to work for the United Press in 1939 in Sacramento, his home town. He became bureau manager in 1943, was transferred to Washington in 1951. Early in his career he was a state political reporter in Reno and Salt Lake City.

President Takes A Few Days Off

By MERRIDIAN SMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — President Eisenhower, weary at the windup of the Republican National Convention, ordered a "day off" for himself and all hands today.

"What was a lot of work," he said as he headed for the opulent Cypress Point Club late Thursday after accepting renomination in a speech at San Francisco's Cow Palace. "I was wet."

The President breathed and audibly "whoosh" as he climbed aboard his special train for the 125-mile run over the Southern Pacific Railroad to this resort where he expects to spend three or four days.

Teletype Service At Daily Newspaper Is Interrupted

Teletype service at the Lodger and Times was interrupted almost three hours this morning after a truck apparently pulled down the telephone wires carrying the United Press news from all over the globe.

The full leased wire is high over South Fourth Street and out of reach of practically all vehicles. As the wire was pulled down it severely damaged the neon sign hanging in front of the daily newspaper.

Nixon To Fight Hard Campaign

By WARREN DUFFE
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24 (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon promised the Republican National Convention Thursday night he will wage a fighting campaign that will take him "to every corner of the land."

He predicted that the Republican ticket he shares again with President Eisenhower will triumph in November by a greater margin than in 1952.

The 43-year old Nixon, went smiling and confident before the convention to accept his renomination. He joined the second Eisenhower "crusade" with a promise to carry its "magnificent message" to all Americans.

Called the Peace Symbol
Nixon praised Mr. Eisenhower as "a living symbol of peace and freedom." He said the nation and the world are fortunate "that we shall have his wise and enlightened leadership for four more years."

A great cheer went up from the crowded Cow Palace as Nixon and his wife, Pat, appeared on the podium. The delegates cheered even louder as convention Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr. introduced Nixon as a vice president who has displayed a "mastery of all concerns of our government."

Nixon was smiling and waving despite the fact he had just returned from the bedside of his ailing father in Whittier, Calif.

He left immediately after the closing convention session again to be with his father. 77-year old Frank Nixon.

Concentrates On Peace
Nixon, a frequent target of Democratic criticism for the vigor of his political assaults, pitched his acceptance speech in a low key. He concentrated on praise for the President and the administration and only indirectly criticized Democrats.

But he let it be known he is ready for a hard campaign. He said the GOP can't afford to be smug or complacent because it has Mr. Eisenhower on the ticket. He said Republicans must work to put the ticket across because "Americans cannot settle for less than the best" in picking its leaders for the next four years.

He promised that as far as physical stamina will permit he will campaign across the nation to bring voters "the great message of the magnificent record" of the Eisenhower administration. He said "Republicans must fight also for election of a Republican Congress."

STRONGER THAN WHISKEY

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Hospital officials today quoted an unidentified woman, being treated for the effects of a bottle of clorox she drank by mistake, as saying "it was just a little stronger" than her whiskey.

Weinberger Baby Is Left To Die On Lonely Road

By WARREN FRANKLIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
MINEOLA, N.Y., Aug. 24 (AP) — The confessed kidnaper of little Peter Weinberger told police early today that he "gently" abandoned the baby alive in a heavily-wooded area of Long Island.

Police planned an intensive search of the woods after daybreak.

Angelo John LaMarca, 31, a bushy-haired moustache and a full and complete confession that he kidnapped the one-month-old child from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weinberger at nearby Westbury, police said. LaMarca, to be arraigned later today on kidnapping charges, said he took the tiny infant because he "needed money badly."

Police said he owed nearly $2,000 for storm windows, a refrigerator and an automobile.

They said LaMarca made one futile attempt to collect the $2,000 but was frightened off by crowds near the pickup point. He then abandoned the helpless child alive, police said.

Other Persons Involved
Nassau County District Attorney Frank Gullotta emphasized that the case was not closed and implied that other persons were involved. A detective who asked that his name not be used told United Press that the kidnaper took the baby to the home of friends in Brooklyn the night of July 4.

Stuyvesant Pinnell, chief of Nassau County detectives, said LaMarca had confessed only to kidnapping the child, not to killing it. LaMarca told detectives he took the baby to a secluded area, "put it down gently," and fled. There was only the slimmest of chances that anyone had found the baby alive and taken it home without notifying police, a spokesman said.

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP) — The decomposed body of the kidnapped Weinberger baby was found today in the Long Island woods where he was abandoned by his kidnaper July 5.

The confessed kidnaper, who once was given a one-year suspended sentence for bootlegging and had a police record, was trapped by persistent FBI agents

President Says GOP Party Of Future, He Tells Why

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24 (AP) — President Eisenhower sent Republican delegates home from their centennial convention today with orders to recruit "young crusaders" into the GOP to make it the "party of the future."

The forward look was the campaign theme which Mr. Eisenhower stressed in accepting his second commission as Republican standard-bearer.

But the party organization was also being assured that the 1956 Republican campaign will stress some less lofty themes — of the kind that politicians call "bells issues" — to persuade the voters that they never had it so good.

The GOP adjourned its four-day convention in the vast Cow Palace Thursday night after hearing acceptance speeches from Mr. Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the party's unanimous nominees to run against the Democratic ticket of Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver.

New Look Outlined
Mr. Eisenhower was beaming and looking fit as he outlined to the cheering delegates the new look he would like to give the Grand Old Party.

Nixon, who returned to the bedside of his ailing 77-year old father immediately after the session promised to deliver the message "to every corner of the land."

The vice president whose past campaign tactics have drawn cries of foul from Democrats, avoided any harsh attacks on the opposition and devoted most of his speech to praise for the President and the record of the administration.

Jim Cullivan Addresses Rotary Club

Jim Cullivan, head football coach at Murray State College, was the speaker yesterday at the Murray Rotary Club.

Cullivan delivered an entertaining and informational talk to the assembled Rotarians. He told the large group that his philosophy on football was to use plenty of rugged blocking and tackling.

"I will be satisfied if the boys block, tackle and think," he said. Murray State will have a "dam good football team this year," he told the Rotarians.

The club was impressed with the humility shown by Coach Cullivan. He told the club that all he knew about football was hard rugged playing.

He painted a picture of the 1956 MSC squad and said that at this time of year, there were many "rands and f's" in the picture. He said that each game would be played as it came up. He promised the club that they could be assured of a great deal of effort on his part.

Cullivan has been assistant coach at the college and prior to that time coached a winning high school team in Tennessee. He is a former MSC griddler.

Visiting Rotarians were Kenneth Wells of Mayfield and Harold Jackson of Paris. Solon Hale was a guest of his father Vernon Hale.

Guests of Luther Robertson were A. J. Danaker, District Sales Manager of General Foods Corporation, St. Louis and Mr. Modersback of Evansville, also with General Foods.

President Hugh Oakley read a letter from Bill Snyder, District Governor of Rotary, in which he praised the Murray Club highly on their activity and interest.

TOO MANY GUESTS

NEW YORK (AP) — A real estate firm which is remodeling the Hotel Lincoln in the Broadway area complained Wednesday that it is being plagued with a flock of uninvited guests. The firm told police that an army of hoboes has been infiltrating the new-empty building and sleeping in unaccustomed comfort. They prefer the bar even though its stock is gone, the firm added.

CORRECTION

Pork liver was advertised yesterday at 9 cents per pound in Johnson's Grocery advertisement. This should have been 15 cents (fifteen) per pound. The Ledger and Times regrets this error.

WEATHER REPORT

Mrs. Tracy Honors Bride-elect With Crystal Shower

Mrs. Albert Tracy entertained with a crystal shower in honor of Miss Carolyn Sue Carraway, bride-elect of Paul A. Purvis, held at her home at 1704 Ryan Avenue on Tuesday morning, August 21.

The honoree chose to wear for the pre-nuptial event a Gay Gibson navy sheer dress with white accessories and a hostess' gift of a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. T. C. Carraway, mother of the bride-elect, wore a black and blue dress while Mrs. Paul W. Purvis, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a brown and white rayon suit. They were each presented a corsage of white carnations by the hostess.

Games were directed by Miss Jo Ann Shell. Miss Carraway opened her many lovely gifts for the guests to view.

The lovely new home was attractively decorated for the occasion with a basket of daisies and roses on the coffee table. An arrangement of yellow daisies and red roses flanked by yellow candles was the centerpiece for the dining table.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Those present were Mesdames Paul W. Purvis and Averett Purvis of Paducah, T. C. Carraway, James Thurmond, Delmon Curran, C. C. Farmer, Ed Griffin, Joe Farmer, Orr, T. A. McKenzie, Andy Ward, Lester Nanny, Otis Valentine, Clifton Cochran, Earl Nanny, Lois Waterfield, Norman Klapp, Coleman McKee, Joe Mikez, Albert Koertner, Ivan Rudolph, and Jessie Shell; Misses Jo Anne Shell, Suzanne Nix, and Eleanor Greenfield; the honoree and the hostess.

Plans Completed By Miss Carraway For Her Wedding Sunday

Plans have been completed for the wedding of Miss Carolyn Sue Carraway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Carraway of Murray, to Paul Averett Purvis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Purvis of Paducah.

Bro. Don Kester, minister of the Seventh and Poplar Church of Christ, will read the double ring ceremony on Sunday, August 26, at four o'clock in the afternoon at the South Pleasant Grove Methodist Church.

The bride will be given in marriage by her father. She has chosen Miss Jo Ann Shell as her maid of honor. Misses Suzanne Nix and Eleanor Greenfield will be the bridesmaids. The flower girls will be Misses Shirley Ann and Linda Sue Cochran.

Mr. Purvis has asked Bill Pasour of Paducah to serve as best man. The ushers will be Solon and Tommy Carraway, brothers of the bride, Mike Crogan and Roger Myers of Cami, Ill.

A program of nuptial music will be presented by Miss Margaret Ruth Atkins, pianist, and Miss Jean Dick, soloist.

All relatives and friends are cordially invited to attend.

Reset Irises Now For Good Blooms

August is the time to lift, divide and reset irises, says Prof. N. R. Elliott, Extension specialist in horticulture at the University of Kentucky.

Irises roots, or rhizomes, have a tendency to grow over one another, forming a mass that eventually will force many of the roots entirely out of the ground. As a result, not which is one of the worst enemies of the iris, may develop.

Irises that are reset this early in the season will have time to become established in their new location and should be in a good condition to bloom next year.

To life the old clumps, run the spade under the mass of roots, turning them out on the ground. The plants then can be separated, only the good healthy pieces of root, about 6 to 8 inches long, being saved. Each piece should have a green-growing tip or small fan of leaves.

In replanting a well-drained area is necessary, as irises cannot stand wet soggy soil. Ordinary good garden soil is excellent, but any type from almost pure sand to

This Miss Business Is Carried Far

By BARMAN W. NICHOLS

United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) — If I may be pardoned, it seems to me we are carrying this "Miss" business more than a little too far.

If a young lady isn't a Miss something or other these days she winds up sitting on a camp chair, waiting for a foreman swain to ask her to dance.

The gamut has been run. We now have a Miss Corn Tassel, Miss Anti-Freeze, Miss Feather Duster, Miss Pony Tail, Miss Honey Dew, and even a Miss Prune Juice.

On the top level, of course, we have Miss America, Miss Universe, and on the other side of the aisle Mrs. America.

Miss D.C. Popular and speaking of the "Miss" department the new Miss District of Columbia can add to her biography a long list of Misses.

Perry Margo Lucey, who will represent the capital at the Miss A. thing in Atlantic City next month is a cute 5-8 brunette (35-23-38 from top to bottom). She has more trophies than the law allows, almost.

Nobody with any sense would want to do away with a miss like Margo. She has fine talent in dramatics; she does a bit which her mother wrote and does it well. And I don't have to tell you that she fills out a bathing suit with what the swim suit people had in mind when they invented swim suits. (See measurements above).

For a long time the 20-year old has been busy winning "Miss" titles. First off was Miss Exquisite Forum, which was appropriate. Before that, when she was 13, rushing 16, she was in Egypt where she picked up three medals in the national swimming championships. If she hadn't been worried about missing the boat she might have wound up as Miss Egypt.

Has 7 More Titles

Other Margo laurels in, the "Miss" category take a bit of listing: Miss Drum Point, Miss Old Dominion Speedway, Miss Langley Park, Miss Auto Show, Miss Cloak and Dagger, and Miss Sophomore Queen (at the University of Maryland).

Sunday, Margo will put on another crown—as Miss MG National at a sports car show in the Washington neighborhood.

No 20-year old girl has a head big enough to wear that many crowns.

Margo with the sparkling green eyes said that maybe it would be a good idea for her to fall off a giraffe at Atlantic City and "show off my backstroke."

I've got news for Margo. She won't have time. They keep the girls pretty busy. They are supposed to smile at all times. Sometimes when they would rather hit the pad and take a long nap.

DOG-CATCHER FEARS DOGS ST. JOSEPH, Mich. (AP) — A Berrien County dogcatcher was fired Tuesday by the county board of supervisors who charged he was "afraid of dogs." The supervisors said they received numerous complaints that John L. Monger, the dogcatcher wouldn't nab stray dogs because he was afraid of them.

PRICES HIGHER FOR GOP LOS ANGELES (AP) — The cost of shipping elephants and donkeys by air hasn't changed since the 1952 presidential conventions. It's still 60 cents a pound.

Trans-world airlines officials estimate that it would cost the Republicans $1,200 to ship a one-ton elephant from New York to Chicago. The Democrats could send a donkey to Chicago from New York for $92.

heavy stiff clay will grow these flowers. Sunshine most of the day is desirable.

Loosen the soil to a depth of 3 to 4 inches, then work in a small handful of finely ground limestone and superphosphate for every six plants. The root of the iris is really a modified stem, and hence should be "barely covered with soil, the first rain washing it off.

For an effective display of blooms, Mr. Elliott recommends planting a half-dozen roots of one color in a circle of 20 to 24 inches in diameter. In this way it is possible to have striking effects when irises are scattered among other flowers. It also makes a more attractive garden when the irises are not in bloom.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

STRENGTH THROUGH TRIAL

James 1:2-18

James, the half brother of our Lord Jesus, addressed this letter to the twelve tribes which were scattered in various parts of the world outside of Palestine. We should study everything in the Epistle in the light of this fact. Doing so will enable us to understand various truths contained therein. Otherwise we would miss their significance and meaning.

Sorply afflicted by poverty and greatly distressed by the oppression which were caused by their dispersion, James' fellow countrymen and fellow Christians were in dire need of instruction and encouragement. This Epistle was a reminder to them that God's care of His own is constant and never-failing. Since it deals with various matters of such deep and abiding interest, we can derive much practical help from a thorough study of it.

The Trials of Christians, James 1:2-12

It is to be remembered that the Christians to whom James addressed this letter were persecuted, tried, imprisoned, robbed and urged to renounce their faith in Christ. These dispersed people were the brethren of James both by nature and by grace. It was to their brotherhood in Christ that he referred primarily.

Quite likely James started those early Christians when he bade them to rejoice because they were being tried in by various trials. He was seeking to encourage them by pointing out the fact that satanic onslaught is a sure sign of spiritual activity. He taught that Christians are to meet their trials joyfully because of their beneficial results. Anything that is "all joy" is without regret or complaint.

Trials discipline a child of God and aid greatly in the development of his Christian character. Misfortunes and adversities test the reality and the strength of the Christian's faith. The endurance of trials often results in the full surrender of the believer to the perfect will of God. Anything is certainly a blessing that causes one to go into the presence of the Lord, and that aids in the development of the grace of patience. Doing the will of God requires patience, and that is developed most effectively by the trials of life. It is only in the school of affliction that the lesson of patience is learned best. Nobody is born with patience; neither is it bestowed upon us when we become Christians, but it is gradually wrought in us by the discipline of experience.

There is a difference between knowledge and wisdom. A person may have an abundance of what is called knowledge and yet be sadly deficient in wisdom. All of us need wisdom. At various times, with a painful intensity we feel our lack of it. We must remember that God is the source of wisdom and the means by which we obtain it is through asking Him for it in genuine faith. To "ask in faith" involves the expectation of receiving. The person who does not expect to get the wisdom for which he asks will not be disappointed. He will receive just what he looks for or expects, which is absolutely nothing. We must never doubt God's ability or willingness to give us wisdom. He has an unlimited supply of it and is very desirous of imparting it to His children. His liberality in giving is the absolute guarantee that the needed supply will be provided when it is desired and requested.

Both the rich and the poor are sharers in affliction. Frequently the poor think that the rich are free of trials, but such is not the case. Those who are rich are brought face to face with the truth that earthly possessions mean nothing so far as eternal salvation is concerned. Wealth has a tendency to make man self-sufficient, but "our sufficiency is of God."

Non-Christians know nothing of the peace, the love, or the joy that thrills the hearts of the faithful Christians who rejoice in the midst of their trials. Nevertheless, "the crown of life" awaits the Christians who endure trials for Christ's sake.

James 1:13-18

A danger that sometimes arises out of trials is the tendency to accuse God of tempting one to sin. By temptation is meant the solicitation to sin. Let it be understood: once for all that temptations do not come from God. He has never enticed anybody to sin. To tempt a person to sin is contrary to the very nature of God, because He hates sin. Nobody has any right to think that God is the author of sin.

Satan tempts us to sin. One of his most effective allies is sinfulness in human nature. Many temptations spring out of human desire. Satan brings numerous allurements before our eyes and tries to entice us to sin, but that is all he can do. He cannot compel us to sin. The solicitation to evil does stimulate the de-

A Week In Manhattan

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (AP) — A week in Manhattan:

The new look every husband approves of is the one a woman manages to give an old dress.

And the happiest thing a woman can hear who's in the midst of making over old clothes is that some of the highest priced designers approve.

Two young men who are making names for themselves as artists in a custom dressmaking salon, where women can afford to pay $175 for a simple wool dress, sat down this week to discuss old clothes and how to make them look new.

"We do it for our customers," said Frank Martier. "We just finished changing a dress with a high neck and long sleeves into a sleeveless dress with a V-neckline front and back for one of our customers."

"The best way to change a dress is the neckline," added Raymond Riverburgh, his partner. The two men put Martier-Raymond labels sire, but the responsibility for doing wrong most assuredly rests upon the individual who yields and sins against God, against others and against himself. Because this is true, you should lay the blame for your sin where it actually belongs, and that is on yourself. You are free to choose the evil or the good, and it is your choice of the former that constitutes sin.

God is the author of all good. Every good gift comes from Him. Every blessing which we enjoy is the gift of God. Not a single good thing which we enjoy could be ours apart from the beneficent hand of God. The gift of victory over temptation and sin is ours merely for the appropriation of it through Christ.

A danger that sometimes arises out of trials is the tendency to accuse God of tempting one to sin. By temptation is meant the solicitation to sin. Let it be understood: once for all that temptations do not come from God. He has never enticed anybody to sin. To tempt a person to sin is contrary to the very nature of God, because He hates sin.
